ROLLINS COLLEGE • WINTER PARK, FLORIDA

Cornell Art Center, A Reality

The construction of the $1.2 million George D. and Harriet W. Cornell Fine Arts Center began August 3rd as official ground breaking ceremonies took place. The Cornell Fine Arts Center will be located on the Rollins campus adjacent to the Morse Gallery of Art. The trustees have re-christened the existing Morse Gallery building the "Jeannette McKean Gallery." Mrs. McKean has been a trustee of the College for many years, and is the wife of Hugh F. McKean, President Emeritus of the College.

The Morse Gallery of Art has for many years featured exhibits from the internationally acclaimed McKean Collection of Louis Comfort Tiffany. College officials expect the gallery to close Sunday, April 18 during the construction period. In the future, it will be used to exhibit works owned by the College as well as loan exhibitions.

Dr. Hugh McKean, during the 18 years he was President of Rollins College, served also as Director of the Morse Gallery and Curator of the College's Art Collection. More recently, he has served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Director of the Morse Gallery.

Scheduled for completion by September of next year, the Cornell Fine Arts Center will provide all facilities for both the undergraduate art department and the Creative Arts Department's art programs.

The complex will contain approximately 16,300 total square feet. Of this total 13,800 square feet will be new construction with the balance being renovation to the existing Morse Gallery. Exhibition galleries and collection storage will be on one floor.

The existing Morse Gallery will be renovated to accommodate the College's art collection and a new Gallery will be added. The exhibition galleries will be created around a reception gathering area which can be used for college functions and student gatherings.

Dr. Critchfield noted that, "The construction of the Cornell Fine Arts Center will again emphasize the interest of the trustees, the faculty, and the students in this valuable area of study in a liberal arts college."

The College continues to receive paintings, sculpture, and other works of art. A large portion of this outstanding and significant collection came to the College through the efforts of Dr. and Mrs. McKean.

Reunion '77: Sports Hall of Fame

TAR athletes, cheerleaders, autograph seekers, Saturday duffers and doubles teams, art enthusiasts or just plain sun-worshippers... alumni all, you and you and you, plan to return to the beautiful Rollins campus March 18th, 19th and 20th for Reunion '77. There will be something for everyone. The Sports Hall of Fame will announce and honor its charter inductees, representing many of the varsity sports through the years. Yes, even football, for those of you after the early 50's... the TAR tackles made their mark! Star golfers and tennis players particularly are being encouraged to return and participate with the less agile. Athlete or no, all can enjoy the annual Winter Park Sidewalk Arts Festival which will be taking place on Park Avenue throughout the very same weekend. Forty Plus alumni, those who attended Rollins prior to 1937, will hold their annual formal luncheon on Sunday, but rest assured many will be present at the Hall of Fame banquet on Saturday also. Some may even receive laurels!

The Class of 1952 can look to a special 25th reunion party. Kit Johnson Rutledge and Alice Egan began planning this affair before alumni had gathered for Reunion '76 in Washington D.C..

The Class of 1927 hasn't a worry in the world. Jeannette Dickson Colado, Kay Lewis Lehman and Billie Freeman Greene will find all your classmates and get them back to campus by one means or another.

The tenth anniversary is one of the most interesting reunion years for alumni. Changing locations, jobs, "increasing the population," knocking a few more strokes off that handicap... a great deal takes place in the first ten years after college. Ye of '67, come on down. You're still young enough to remember ALL the past, and you have so much to share in the present.

C. Douglas Kerr '66 and Alice Henry Acree '42, co-chairpersons for Reunion '77, have already begun scanning the alumni files looking for committee heads and volunteers. To date, the following alumni have stepped forward:

Ann Todd Johns '57	Class Parties
Sherri Voss Lorenzen '59	President's Luncheon
Ernest Zoller '29	Forty Plus Luncheon
George W. Johnson '50	Tennis Tournament

Several more chairpersons and as many volunteers as possible are needed to work on various sub-committees. The more hands, the lighter the load. Please turn to page and fill out the Reunion '77 form lending your hand, and return it to the Alumni House before Thanksgiving. Preparations for the weekend have already begun, but volunteer assistance will not be called upon until after the first of the year.

Reardon Returns

John Reardon, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will open the 1976-77 Rollins Concert Series with a performance on Sunday, November 7 in the Annie Russell Theatre. The concert will begin at 4:00 p.m.

A graduate of the Rollins Class of '52, Reardon has gained international reputation as a performer of opera oratorio and recitals. Pianist Joanne Byrd Rogers '50 an alumnus of Rollins and wife of Fred Rogers '51 of the Mister Roger's television show, will accompany Mr. Reardon.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY

"Nostalgia - a wistful or excessively sentimental, sometimes abnormal, condition to return to, or of, some past period or irrecoverable condition," so says Mr. Webster.

Several weeks ago I was struck with a mild infection brought on by a touch of "nostalgia." The malady caused my mind to become hyperactive with my thoughts racing back to my days as a student. They were pleasant thoughts of fellow classmates and the good days we had here at Rollins. What brought on this mild attack was the opening of school and my observations of student activities during the first few days.

As I see it now - "nothing has changed, just a new breed is doing it." The guys continue to gather in small groups talking about the new crop of freshman girls. The freshman girls dart about campus all decked out looking real pretty and excited. The freshman boys act nonchalant, hiding their apprehensiveness. Senior men and women put on their "sophisticated" personality to impress the new fledglings.

Heavens, do you remember those days? Sitting here on campus, witnessing the routine rituals of the fall term makes it difficult to avoid the infectiousness of "nostalgia."

ALUMNI "CONTACTS"

We are experiencing a marked increase in inquiries concerning "alumni contacts" in various areas of the country. Many young alumni move from place to place frequently during their first five years out of college, and want very much to keep in touch with Rollins people. We have a need for alumni volunteers to act as "alumni area contacts" for the purpose of generally welcoming an alumnus/a to the area, and to assist them with getting settled. We are not suggesting that an "alumni area contact" person help get a job or to buy a home, simply offer a familiar guiding hand.

We are also, however, looking for alumni who are interested in helping recent graduates become gainfully employed. Young graduates returning to their home areas need an "alumni contact" who will help them follow up leads to employment opportunities.

If you are interested in either of these volunteer programs, please contact the Alumni House. We plan to give more details about "alumni contact" programs in our February issue.

AREA MEETINGS

I am planning to be out and about this fall visiting alumni and talking about the Alma Mater. President Jack Critchfield will be with me, as will his lovely wife, Nancy. Please make plans to attend the alumni meeting scheduled for your area of the country. Formal invitations are mailed to alumni residing in and near the selected cities. There is a possibility that an alumnus/a residing in a party area may not receive an invitation. Improper addresses are usually the cause of this situation. We regret this.

Eleanor Reese Morse '35 and her husband have hosted a cocktail party on October 1st at the Dali Museum for Cleveland area alumni and parents. John "Red" Harris '44 hosted a Houston area party at the River Oaks Country Club on October 8th. In November, the President and I will travel to Boston and Greenwich. We plan to visit New York City in December and Cincinnati in January.

HALL OF FAME

The Sports Hall of Fame Committee has announced the date for the inaugural installation ceremony for charter members. Induction will be the main feature event on the program at the Reunion Banquet, March 19, 1977. A deadline of November 15, 1976 has been set for accepting nominations to be considered for the '77 induction. All nominations will be kept on file for future consideration.

ADMISSIONS

Alumni often ask me about the quality of education at Rollins and inquire as to the entrance requirements. My reply is, "The standards for admissions are very high. It is getting tougher each year for a student to meet the requirements for admission. The quality of the student body reflects the level of educational aptitude requested by the faculty." The Admissions staff directed by Bill Hartog '69, with Hank Hencken '64, Mark Friedinger ' , and Cynthia Grubb ' have done a "super" job of recruiting students for Rollins. This year's freshman class is loaded with academically talented young people. Here are a few facts about the students in the Class of '80: 11 valedictorians, 9 salutatorians, 4 National Merit Scholars, 35 Honors Degree Program enrollees. The Class of '80 has 428 students, 193 men and 234 women, with 32 states and 11 foreign countries represented. Florida leads the states with 170. Financial aid (scholarships, grants, work loans or state federal funds) was granted to 118 students or 27% of the class, averaging $2,100 per student for a total of $250,000. Alumni should be aware of the fact that 30% of the entire student body are recipients of varying levels of financial assistance. The continuation of financial assistance to highly qualified applicants will require a greater commitment of dollar resources from the College. This present level of commitment to needy students will continue to be made so long as the income from alumni giving programs and other funding sources increases in proportion to the demand. A Rollins student today pays approximately 72% of his educational costs. I suspect that this has been true to varying degrees for each alumnus/a. As I work more closely with the Vice President and Treasurer of the College, Charles Zellers, the more I become aware of the past financial history of the College. I am aware that members of my class, 1951, did not come anywhere near paying the real cost of their education. The College had to hustle for a great amount of money to keep the doors open, and, even then, operated on a deficit budget. I was not cognizant of this when I was a student, but I am fully aware of it today.

Rollins College prohibits and rejects any discrimination based on race, sex, color, creed, national origin, and religion in the selection and admission of students. Applicants can be fully assured of admission solely on the basis of their academic achievements and qualifications.

Further, the practice of discrimination on the basis of race, sex, color, creed, national origin, and religion is prohibited in all programs and activities at Rollins College.

The Rollins College Alumni Record is published quarterly, Fall, Winter, Spring and Summer by the Rollins College Alumni Association, Winter Park, Florida 32789, and distributed to graduates, former students, seniors and Friends of Rollins College.

All communications and POD Forms 3579 should be sent to Rollins College, Box 2736, Winter Park, Florida 32789. Second-class postage paid at Winter Park, Florida 32789.

HUGH F. McKEAN SOCIETY

A new donor club has been established by the Board of Directors to honor former President, Hugh F. McKean. The Hugh F. McKean Society will enroll as members alumni who contribute $250-$500 annually to the College. Dr. McKean, "Hugh" as he so often reminds people, served as President of Rollins from 1951 thru 1969 with dedication to the profession of educator and administrator. Rollins made great advances under his perceptive leadership and guidance. The Board is proud to offer membership in The Hugh F. McKean Society as a recognition of financial support to Rollins College.

Annual Fund 1976-1977

HAMILTON HOLT CENTURY CLUB

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Association recognize the minimum standard for "leadership giving" via membership in the Hamilton Holt Century Club ($100-$250).

PRESIDENT'S CLUB and CONQUISTADORES

The College is fortunate to have alumni who demonstrate a genuine concern for the welfare of Rollins, its faculty and students through donor participation in the President's Club ($500-$1000) and the Sociedad de los Conquistadores ($1000 and up).

The Board of Directors of the Rollins College Alumni Association wish to say "Thank you" to all alumni who have previously contributed to the Alumni Annual Fund. The Board wishes to convey an expression of sincere gratitude for past support and urge your continued and generous response to our annual appeal.

If there is to be a catch phrase or slogan to describe the impetus of this year's Annual Fund Drive, it would be the word "Impact." Last year, alumni contributed $188,128, which recorded an appreciable increase in dollars. But, the increase in the number of donors was the most satisfying result of the campaign. The importance of a statistic - "percent of alumni donor participation" - is significant to the development program. A question the College must answer when it approaches foundations for support is, "What is your percent of alumni participation?" We can proudly state that the number of donors did increase 19% in 1975-76 raising the number of donors to 1679. This figure will have "Impact."

To "Impact" and create a strong case for continued support from the College's friends, parents, foundations and corporation supporters, we, the alumni, must continue to donate and increase in numbers. With 14,500 alumni now on the rolls, a 20% donor participation will require gifts from 2900 alumni.

Many alumni do not make a donation because they feel that a gift of $10 or $20 would not be significant. 50% of all gifts received in 1976 were $20 or less. Gifts of this level have "Impact." Simple arithmetic says that $145,000 to $290,000 could be raised if each alumnus/a would send a gift of $10 to $20. That's "Impact."

Donor recognition clubs continue to be important to the success of the Alumni Annual Fund.

"Jeez, Dr. Hooker, That's Easy!"

Elizabeth "Missy" Jones Kamrad graduated from Rollins in 1964. She is married to the former Tar oarsman, Dennis Kamrad '62, who is currently Crew Coach at Florida Technological University. A busy housewife and mother of two daughters, Missy always finds the time to put pen to paper, be the copy for a local civic organization, the local and national crew publications, or for her Alma Mater. Missy's way with the written word is unique. There is no other word to describe this refreshing and fond look at the history of Rollins.....

On January 15, 1884 Dr. Edward Payson Hooker, pastor of the Congregational Church of Winter Park, gave a sermon in support of "the need for the State of Florida for better schools and ...for...higher education of the young men and women of the State, (and to) promote the growth of our churches, and in establishing the kingdom of our Lord." And so it was that the seed for the future of Rollins College was laid, that Alonso W. Rollins was to subscribe $50,000 for that end, and that Edward Payson Hooker became President when the doors opened November 4, 1885.

It is the year 1976 and we Rollins graduates have good cause to celebrate our own bicentennial with 1985 just around the corner. It is time to ring the Knowles Chapel bell as loud as we can, and with pride, for we have succeeded when other schools like Rollins have failed. We have grown and we have flourished, moving forward ever (except in times of national crises) to meet the modern educational needs of our youth.

One might wonder though, in reflection, upon pulling back those mysterious curtains to heaven, if our founding fathers are as anxious to ring bells and set off fireworks as we are, for truth is that the honorables Hooker, Rollins, Comstock, Fairbanks, Knowles, and Chase might have found most of us ineligible to enter Rollins in the first place, at least not without first undergoing their "preparatory program." Requirements for admission in 1885 consisted of "evidence through preparation in Latin and Greek, a knowledge of French, arithmetic, algebra, plane geometry, Physical Geography, History of the United States, and of Rome, Greece, and the Medieval Period."

One can, in fact, almost visualize President Hooker giving an oral exam to a 1976 freshman.

"Son," says Dr. Hooker. "Translate this Latin passage for me."

"Can't," says Student 1976. "All I know about Caesar is that he got knifed for making time with Brutus's woman, or was that the other way around? Anyway, those Latin dudes must have had learning disabilities. Why else would they write backwards?"

"All right son," proceeds President Hooker with restraint, "What about your knowledge of Greek? You did study Greek, didn't you?"

"Right on, Pop," emphasizes Student 1976. "My old man was a Teek, as in Tau Kappa Epsilon, and I can rattle off the Greek alphabet in a second so's I'll know it when I'm a pledge. Wanna hear it?"

"No, NO, that's fine boy. Let's switch to something that might be a little easier for you. What can you tell me about Ancient History?"

"Jeez, Dr. Hooker, that's easy! We just studied that. The United States beat the pants off that Hitler guy in World War II. I've got a whole model collection of those antique war planes at home. Wish you could see it!"

"That won't be necessary," says Dr. Hooker, nervously folding his papers. "We don't seem to be communicating very well. Is there any possibility that you can tell me something, anything, about Greece?"

"Sure," grins Student 1976. "That's where Aristotle Onassis used to park his yacht when Jackie had to go grocery shopping!"

"Dear Lord," sighs Dr. Hooker, "Have mercy on this poor boy's soul."

Were academics not enough to set Dr. Hooker's halo in a spin today, most assuredly the informal rules and regulations now governing Rollins would immediately, for in 1885 rules included "daily attendance at chapel and forbade the 'use of intoxicating drinks, use of tobacco within the college campus, all forms of gambling, and loitering in billiard saloons or similar places of resort.' On Friday evenings, gentlemen were permitted to call upon ladies in the reception room of the ladies cottage." Doubt seriously if the good Dr. Hooker, accustomed to such restrictions as he was, would have approved of such earlier practices as keg parties at The Pelican, hot pants worn to a Shakespeare lecture, necking in the Kappa Lodge, or pool tables in Frat houses, let alone the most recent innovation of "dormitory visiting rights!"

Have we really changed so much? Have we really strayed from the path, academically and morally? Or is it just that only the people and their collective clothing have changed, less the institution of Rollins? There is a good case for this argument, for when Dr. Hooker, the founding trustees, and the first faculty determined what was to "be" Rollins, they established once and for all the policies which have since been steadfastly maintained: "that Rollins should be a small liberal arts college, coeducational, nondenominational, independent, comparable in its standards to older colleges in other sections of the country, and that it be national rather than sectional in the selection of faculty and students." Toward that end Rollins has never waived. Because of that end Rollins has grown from a small babe in swaddling clothes to a fine College of graceful distinction. Chances are Dr. Hooker is pretty happy about the whole thing. We are.

"Rollins Changing With Times, but Clinging to Liberal arts as Students Become More Practical"

[Reprinted with permission of Winter Park Sun Herald]

Jack B. Critchfield, 43, this year begins his eighth year as president of Rollins College.

The college has seen many changes during his administration, which are touched upon in the following interview with Sun Herald staff writer Geri Throne.

A graduate of Slippery Rock State College in Pennsylvania, he received both his master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Pittsburgh. He was assistant chancellor for student affairs and assistant professor of higher education at the University of Pittsburgh before coming to Rollins.

Active in Central Florida in civic affairs, Critchfield is a member of the Florida Council of 100 and vice president and a director of Loch Haven Art Center.

Q: The quality of the Rollins student has gotten steadily better in the last several years. How do you think Rollins compares academically with other colleges nationally, and in Florida?

A: Well, there are the elite institutions of the Northeast and a splattering in the far West, who by statistical measure completely outdistance this and most other institutions. I doubt very much that any college that is not already in that group - the IVY's, the Seven Sisters and a few others like that - will ever be able to compete with them.

Rollins has made a planned effort in the last few years to admit only students we believe can succeed at this institution if they apply themselves in the right manner. As a result, the quality of our classes, as measured by high school standing and college board scores, has increased dramatically.

That hasn't been easy, because the average in college board scores nationally has gone down. The proliferation of public universities and junior colleges, and the dropping of the number of students population-wise going to college - all of these factors made that almost impossible. We're fortunate to have a very active admissions staff, a good one, a very effective one. We're fortunate to be located where we are. Somehow maybe we've been lucky in pulling out of this at a time when many other institutions who may have had standards similar to ours or greater have deteriorated.

I wouldn't want to ever sound like an elitist because I'm not one, and this institution is not elite, in the best or worst sense of the word. But I think we can hold our head up to any institution today, not only on the basis of the quality of our students, but on the quality of the academic programs and the faculty at this college.

In the Southeast, we rank very high. When you take a look at the fact that we have more common applicants with schools like Vanderbilt and Duke and Emory than we do with the public system or other small colleges, I think it's indicative of the fact that the image of Rollins has changed. We have built a sound academic program that affords the student the opportunity to achieve not only here but to properly prepare for graduate school and professional schools and to go on and look for jobs.

Q: Do you think there's anything to the statement that the student of the 70's is "materialistic" and "uninvolved" compared to the "idealistic" student of the 60's?

A: There's a difference between the two - a dramatic difference. I'm not ready to even accept in that question that the students of the 60s were moralistic and idealistic in all cases, any more than I can agree that all the students in the 70s are materialistic. I think you have shades of differences in either decade. Those shades are determined pretty much by external forces rather than internal motivation. In the 60s the news media and the public at-large was up in arms and was concerned about the Vietnam situation. Out of that, as a primary motivation, there were others who then took up the cry and became ringleaders to cure all the evils of the world.

That's good. We needed that. And I think higher education needed it. We didn't need some of the radicalism and destruction that went with it but maybe it had to come along in order to get people's attention.

But I'm not really prepared to say that the young people we're dealing with today are any less idealistic than those. They're simply more practical in terms of recognizing first that we're in an economic climate that demands if they're going to make a livelihood and exist in our society, they have got to put their nose to the grindstone and choose a profession or career that as best they can tell, with advice, is going to afford them an opportunity for a job. That's fundamental and I think it's fundamental not just from within, but from parental pressure. Parents are saying, 'Look, John, or Look, Mary, you can go and study philosophy if you want but when you finish we expect you to find a job somewhere.' Well, I think there still is parental influence and I think young people are responding to that.

I don't think they've discarded, or forgotten about or become disinterested in the processes of government; I don't think they've turned their backs on the bad experiences of big business and under-the-table dealings; I don't think they've become disinterested in a desire for world peace; I don't think they've become disinterested in attempting to do away with the drug cult, and on and on.

I think in some respects they've got their heads screwed on a little better and have a desire to prepare themselves to work within the system to improve it than many of the students in the 60s.

Q: Rollins follows national trends in education in a number of ways. For example, the Greek houses are growing in membership again. What reason do you think accounts for this recent resurgence?

A: This is a personal opinion. I have never been a part of the Greek system and have never really spent much time trying to understand it. I know it's terribly important to some students. Whatever they need in the way of that kind of close relationship with a smaller number of students seems to be satisfied by a Greek organization.

I think, here again, tradition, the history of an institution, is involved. We really don't get a great number of alumni children coming in as many institutions do but we always have some. And I think those parents who came here in the 30s and 40s and 50s look back and say that was just as important to them as the rest of their education and therefore we'd like our son and daughter to go to an institution and have a chance to be a Greek.

I think it fulfills a social need. I'm not certain always that it's the best way to have that need filled, as I suspect no college president is.

Rollins really never bottomed out as low as some of the other institutions that had a history of Greek organizations. We did go down. During my time here it was beginning to drop. I think it's been coming up slowly since '72 or '73. And we've seen a more dramatic increase just in the last year.

That does tend to follow national trends. But I doubt very much that the fraternity and sorority system will ever reach the peak that it once did on this campus - or any campus - of as much as 65 or 70 per cent. It might hang in there at just over 50 per cent. Again, I don't have any statistics to base that on.

One reason I don't think they will ever peak again is cost. The inflationary impact of attending colleges and universities, be they private or public, has taken its toll in terms of what extra money a family has to give a student.

Cost varies in terms of the arrangements for the houses on different campuses, in terms of the national dues, in terms of the cost of the parties that go on. I would think that would be the single greatest limiting factor. There are just a relatively fewer number of students, even though they may be characterized as affluent, who can afford or whose parents can afford - the cost.

Plus, I do think that, in spite of the educational system maybe not going as well as it should be in a number of areas, we seemingly now have the continuity or consistency that breeds some piece of mind among the students. Maybe the kids today don't understand the basic skills as well as they did some years ago. I suspect they don't have the basic tools with which to learn they ought to have. In spite of all of that, whether we give education the credit or the news media or just the events of our time, I feel we have a much more sensitive group of students. Maybe that means maturity, too. Maybe that means an 18 or 19-year-old man or woman who says, 'I don't need this fraternity. I'm going to make my friends and some of them will be Greeks and some of them won't be but I don't need to be part of a clique.'

Q: What new directions does Rollins plan to be going in?

A: We have to continue to be as flexible and versatile as we can be and afford to be. In attempting to sense the needs of society in the practical sense as well as clinging to the important parts of the liberal arts education, I think we're going to have to give our students within our curriculum and by adding very little new courses - the opportunity to prepare for employment, in a more direct manner than liberal arts colleges have in the past.

We've begun it by strengthening our undergraduate business and economics programs, I think with our School for Continuing Education we will continue to be responsive to community needs, the need to educate the employees of the community, such as the Criminal Justice Program which has been so successful.

The other thing we are contemplating is making better utilization of this campus in the summer. It would probably be more along the lines of an academy than a four-year college. We are planning now to offer a series of programs next summer to youngsters from seventh through 12th grades, maybe even down to the elementary level, for reading rehabilitation to improve and strengthen their use of verbal skills - speaking, writing, reading. If that is successful, we'll probably open it up on a nation-wide basis the following year and use our dormitories. The first year will be strictly day students. This will not only provide us with a much needed income but will provide a very definite service to the immediate area.

We're also going to continue to look at some programs to better utilize what is an absolutely outstanding science facility. We have begun exploring the feasibility and financial practicality of a degree in nursing. We're finding a lot of roadblocks in that one, primarily financial, but we haven't given up on it yet.

That's kind of an overview of what I see in the immediate future. Financially, the college has got to - if it is to remain independent - undertake a steady, consistent fund-raising program that's going to have to be better than it's ever been in the past.

From the Mailbag

August 6, 1976

Dear Marilyn,

Thanks so much for your quick response to my letter offering the two old TOMOKANS, one for 1946 and one for 1947.

My thought was if these were offered in the regular alumni news bulletin someone might like to have them. I have duplicate copies of these two and don't need them. Someone may have lost their copy or misplaced it, and would be welcome to mine. I'm not trying to sell them - just give them away. You might do a service to an old alumnus/a to let them know they are available for free. They are pretty heavy to mail, and I'd only require the postage, probably about a dollar or so. I'm just trying to do someone a favor.

Thanks alot.

Mr. William Gordon
Director of Alumni Affairs
Campus Box # 2736

Dear Bill,

I write to you, and through you to the readers of the ALUMNI RECORD, in response to the article by Randy Taylor in the Summer, 1976, issue of the RECORD. I hope that you will print this reply in the next issue of the RECORD.

I should first like to question the propriety of your selection of Randy to write the article for the alumni. As you quite accurately point out in your introduction to his article, Randy was prominent in the "defense of the Greek organizations on the Rollins campus." For precisely that reason, it is difficult to agree with your subsequent statement that "Randy was the obvious choice to tell the story to alumni across the country." I realize that objectivity was in short supply during the Housing Review Board controversy, but since you are familiar with Randy's role in that controversy, you might have solicited a second account for balance. As a member of the Housing Review Board, I would like to comment on several points about which Randy was less than objective.

Commenting on the two groups which were to replace KA and X Club in small houses, Randy stated that the groups "incidentally, were new. . . they existed only on paper." The two groups, Lighthouse and Fine Arts, are new. They do not, however, exist only on paper. They are composed of human beings, not theoretical human beings, and they exist as a group in reality, not in theory. Indeed, as Randy noted later in his article, these two groups "will probably go to Rex Beach." Since Randy was clearly aware that Lighthouse and Fine Arts are more than paper organizations, his statement that they exist only on paper is as perplexing as it is misleading.

Similarly, Randy raised the issue of coeducational housing in a misleading way. According to Randy, "The issue was simple: was the Housing Review Board to remove KA and X Club from their houses and move in 'coeducational living groups?'" The issues before the Housing Review Board, however, were NOT simple, and at no point was coed housing a primary issue for the Board. Two existing groups were already coed, and the Board saw no reason to raise an issue which had been previously dealt with in a rational manner with a minimum of controversy. The coed housing issue, so far as the recent flap goes, was and is a red herring. It was raised, in part at least, as a scare tactic, the assumption being, I suppose, that persons inhabiting a coed dorm are also cohabiting there. It may be assumed that sexual intercourse occurs in dormitories on this campus, but it should not be assumed that it occurs more frequently in coed than in single-sex [no pun intended] dorms. Randy's statement about a "simple" issue does nothing to clarify the Housing Review Board's decision-making process.

Randy concluded his article with a paean to the glories of tradition. He went so far as to suggest that the Fox opposes such changes. Perhaps he [she, it?] does oppose such change. Of more importance is whether Rollins - affiliated human beings oppose moderate change. To be specific, let me quote from Randy's article: "Tradition simply cannot be legislated away with the stroke of a pen." If this is meant to imply that the Housing

Review Board suddenly and without warning deprived two Greek organizations of their houses, this, too, is inaccurate. The Board acted according to legislation and those guidelines for a year and a half. The process by which the decision was made to remove two groups for 1976-77 could hardly be characterized as "the stroke of a pen."

Still more disturbing on this point is Randy's over-glorification of tradition. As most Americans are aware, in the 1960's a number of college students were castigated for supposedly wanting radically to reform the country by "destroying the system." In the 1970's we have witnessed what seems to be a return to more moderate methods of reform; one might call this a return to the idea of reforming things by legitimate means, "within the system" as it were. I would like to suggest that what happened in the spring of 1976 was a model example of an attempt by students to effect moderate change within the system, specifically, by complying with the criteria established for equal access to small housing units. In brief, all groups were given equal opportunity, and those which presented what the Board felt were clearly the best proposals were awarded small houses, or, as in most cases, retained their houses. Thus, two groups which proposed something different, academically oriented living situations, were deemed to have complied best with the rules of the existing system as established by a standing committee of the College and by the College Senate. After having accomplished this mild reform, they were told by the President and Board of Trustees that, in effect, the rules of the system were being changed EX POST FACTO. Because of actions such as this, some people who are told that tradition CANNOT be changed by the stroke of a pen begin to believe that they are in fact being told that tradition SHOULD NOT be changed at all.

Traveling Tars Oktoberfest '77

Alumni interest in the Traveling Tars proposed trip to Oktoberfest 1977 was very good with over 30 persons indicating a desire to go on the Tour. Fifty reservations are available for this trip. The Tour package includes:

- *Round trip charter jet transportation including meals and beverages (departure from Kennedy Airport in New York.)
- *7 nights accommodations at the new Superior First Class Holiday Inn - double occupancy.
- *Bavarian buffet breakfast daily.
- *Sightseeing tour of Munich.
- *Full day tour to romantic Salzburg.
- *A day visit to King Ludwig's famous hunting lodge castle at Linderhof and Garmish-Partenkirchen.
- *Two days at Oktoberfest 1977
- *Full day tour to Oberammergau and the Royal Castle.
- *All transfers and baggage handling.
- *All gratuities for bellmen, maids and waiters.
- *U.S. and German departure taxes.
- *Services of a professional tour escort throughout.

The departure date from New York is Friday, September 16, 1977. Total cost is $599.00 subject to increase in airfare. A deposit of $100 is required by January 15, 1977 to hold reservations. Make checks payable to Bob Voyage International Travel Inc. and send to Traveling Tars, Box 2736, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida 32789.

Rollins College Alumni Association

Honor Roll of Donors 1975-1976

Annual Fund Review

1975-76

The importance of the Annual Alumni Fund to Rollins College cannot be overestimated. Unrestricted funds received from alumni are used for operating expenses where the need is greatest. These contributions go a long way toward balancing the budget and providing for the needs of faculty and students. We received additional funds from major corporations and foundations which match gifts from alumni employees. All of these gifts are essential to the maintenance of the high academic standards set by the faculty and student body.

In 1975-76, 1,688 alumni contributed $188,128 to the Annual Alumni Fund. This was a 19.8% increase in donor participation and an increase of $63,594. The Board of Directors is particularly pleased by the upturn in the number of alumni participating.

To those alumni who have not previously made a contribution to the Annual Alumni Fund, I ask that you begin now. Whatever the amount, it is important to Rollins that you start giving. The number participating is an important criteria used by foundations when reviewing applications from colleges soliciting funds.

For those of you who were able to participate this year, you are urged to continue your financial support of Rollins College and to encourage fellow classmates to join you in making a commitment to the support of the college.

Is Your Name Missing?

The question most often asked of the Director of Alumni Affairs by fellow alumni and supporters of Rollins College is - "Why is it that many alumni do not give to the support of their college?"

Our reply to this question is based on an analysis of the donor patterns established by our contributing alumni. Two root causes have been identified: one - alumni have a distorted view of the institution's gross worth in terms of its endowment, and second - alumni continue to believe that only a gift of large proportion is significant.

Rollins College has an Endowment of securities whose market value is approximately $11,000,000 returning $675,000 a year in income. An institution of Rollins' size, student-professor ratio, and quality of instruction should have an endowment of 50 to 60 million dollars. Rollins is not a "wealthy" college with regard to financial resources. Its "real" wealth is its concerned alumni.

The small gift is significant. Fifty percent of all alumni gifts received in 75-76 were $20 or less. The Alumni Association has not made it a practice to ask alumni for a specific amount of money but has always urged each alum to make a contribution according to the alum's ability to contribute.

Rollins College needs your annual gift. Begin this year by placing your name on the Honor Roll for 76-77.

SOCCER

Rollins College head soccer coach Gordie Howell said prior to the 1976 campaign that the Rollins booters "should jell and begin to perform well under pressure by mid-season." Not only have the kickers managed to jell and play well together, but they have now been able to accumulate one of the best win-loss records in College Division play thus far.

Looking back at two outstanding victories over South Florida (ranked No. 4 in University Division) and Miami (ranked No. 10 in University Division), the Tars have accumulated an 8-1 record with a seven-game winning streak in their favor. The only Rollins setback came in the season opener when they dropped a 1-0 decision to the University of Maryland (Baltimore Campus).

"We are becoming much more aggressive on the field," said an elated Howell, now in his ninth year at the Tar helm. "Our youth and desire has, thus far, made this rebuilding year very successful for us."

Providing a great deal of the youthful stamina for the Tars are freshman Lew Mocer, Steve Larsen, John Byrne and goalkeeper Dale Smith. Mocer leads the team in goals scored with four while Smith is rated by Howell "as a talented and valuable member to the Rollins contingent." Smith is credited with six shutouts while allowing only four goals in nine starts. Rollins has netted 19 goals thus far with 215 shots on goal.

BASKETBALL

Four promising newcomers will join the team in 1976-77. Ron Jenkins, a 6-7 forward from New York City and 6-6 Bob Zybert of Illinois "will add much needed depth and stability to the team," according to Jucker. Jenkins, selected as a First Team member of the All-New York City squad, averaged better than 41 points per contest last season at The McBurney School while pulling in 27 rebounds per contest. Zybert, who captured ten rebounds per outing this past season, netted better than 20 points per game at Niles West High in Skokie, Illinois in 1975-76. Zybert was unanimously selected as the Central Suburban Conference's Most Valuable Player while also being named to the All-Area teams of the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Tribune.

Tim Mahoney of Cincinnati and Kyle Rich, also of Cincinnati, will join the squad as "highly recommended prospects who are expected to add both strength and depth to the Rollins roundball squad."

Mahoney, Most Valuable Player in the Greater Cincinnati League last season, performed in the Mid-Western All America Classic in Dayton (Ohio) and broke Ohio's free throw record with 50 consecutive conversions at Xavier High. Hitting for 92.4 percent of his charity shots. Mahoney averaged better than 16 points per game. Rich, a graduate of Finneytown High, averaged 20 points per contest and 14 rebounds. All-League both in his junior and senior year, the 6-6 speedster was named to the First Team All-City in both Esquire and Post publications. Rich was selected to play in the East-West Cincinnati All-Star game, as well as being named to the U.S.A. All-Star team which toured Poland in an 11-game circuit against various Polish All-Stars.

Rollins will play a 25-game schedule including the Tangerine Bowl Tournament Classic which features Fordham University, Western Kentucky, Stetson and defending champions, Rollins. The Tars will again compete in the Sunshine State Conference meeting with conference foes Florida Tech., Florida Southern, Biscayne, Eckerd and St. Leo.

Steve Jucker

Gary Parsons

Co-Captains

Although the 1976-77 Rollins College basketball squad will be comprised of ten returning cagers from last year's Cinderella contingent, it is not hard to visualize a rebuilding year in the making. The loss of the widely acclaimed "Cincinnati Kids" - Bruce Howland, Steve Heis, and Tom Klusman - give added depth and credibility to head coach Ed Jucker's comment that "the 1976-77 basketball season will, in fact, be a rebuilding one."

Of the ten veteran performers only two were involved with steady starting roles last season. Gary Parsons, second highest scorer on last year's club with an average 14.9 points per game, will join Ed Lake as the pair of veteran starters. Steve Jucker, Bob Morris, Bob Klusman, Dirk Twine, Tom Oren, Jay Colling, Tom Durkee and Brian Campbell will make up the returning contingent.

When your copy of The Record cannot be delivered to you by the Post Office because you have changed your address, a notice of this fact with your new address is sent to the Alumni House. The cost of receiving these address changes has been 10 cents each for several years. This cost will soon go to 25 cents each, as other charges of the Postal Department are increased. This increase in cost will hit the budget of the Alumni Association hard. You can help us save this money by sending us your change of address. Please fill out the Moving Form on the back page. Thank you.
